

Problematic Sexual Behaviours in Young People

What should we consider when working with young people displaying problematic sexual behaviours?

Wednesday 3 July 2019

Holiday Inn Express, Armouries Dr, Leeds, LS10 1LE

12pm Registration and Lunch , 12.30pm Welcome and 4.30pm, Close

Young people often demonstrate sexual behaviours; Sometimes these are concerning, usually they are not. The tricky part is deciding when and where resources should be focused. This course explores key pieces of research addressing the topic and consider how practitioner confidence can be increased when supporting young people who sexually harm. Practitioners would benefit from knowing when a young person's sexualised behaviour is a cause for concern. This event will discover how to decide which behaviours warrant further action and what those actions may be.

This course aims to provide delegates with:

- Understand the differences between appropriate, problematic and harmful sexual behaviours when demonstrated by young people.
- Know when a young person requires a more specialist assessment and intervention and where to seek these.

ABOUT OUR SPEAKER

Jenny Greensmith - Harmful Sexual Behaviour Specialist and Co-Director of Safer Lives

Jenny is a specialist with Leeds Youth Offending Service for working with young people displaying Harmful Sexual Behaviours who had responsibility for carrying out assessments of young people as well as supervising interventions delivered by other YOS staff. Prior to this Jenny worked with adult male sexual offenders as a programme facilitator then Treatment Coordinator with West Yorkshire Probation Trust.

Jenny currently works full time as co-director at Safer Lives CIC. Safer Lives is a community interest company that works with adults and young people who are concerned about their sexual thoughts or under investigation for sexual offences. They work in partnership with academic, NHS and Criminal Justice bodies, delivering training, assessment and interventions.
