

Assessment, Treatment & Management Of Those Who Offend Sexually

Tuesday 11 December 2018

The Met Hotel, King Street, Leeds, LS1 2HQ

12.00pm Registration, and lunch 12.30pm Welcome and 4.30pm, Close

Led by Dr Liz Flynn, Forensic Network Clinical Lead for MAPPA and Serious Offending and Dr Alex Quinn, Consultant Forensic Psychiatrist, NHS Lothian. This workshop will cover the aetiology and prevalence of sexual offending, understanding and assessing the risk of sexual offending, treatment and interventions, and recommendations for the management of those who sexually offend. The workshop will also cover sexual deviance (or paraphilia), which is an important factor in some sexual offences but practitioners can find it difficult to identify, assess, treat and manage. In particular, this workshop will cover the concept of sexual deviance, and implications for risk assessment.

This course aims to provide delegates with:

- Methods of assessing those who have offended sexually with particular attention paid to the structured professional model approach but also discussing assessment of personality.
- An understanding of the SPJ process and the importance of formulation within that.
- Community management of this client group again with reference to the SPJ model. As part of this there will be more detailed discussion about treatment options, both psychological and medical.
- Improved awareness of the best practice approach to assessing and managing those who have offended sexually and to have an awareness of possible intervention options.

About our speakers:

Dr Liz Flynn, Consultant Forensic Clinical Psychologist & Lead Psychologist, Serious Offender Liaison Service, NHS Lothian. Dr Flynn has experience of working as a clinician in the Scottish Prison Service and in Medium Secure conditions but has spent most of her career working in Community Forensic services.

Dr Alex Quinn, Consultant Forensic Psychiatrist, Orchard Clinic. Dr Quinn covers mental illness inpatients and outpatients and has input to the Serious Offender Liaison Service.
