As health professional, you want to have a positive impact on the lives of the people you treat and care for, attending this course will make a real difference by helping your service tackle the premature mortality of people experiencing severe mental illness.

Presenter Dr. David Shiers will give you simple, practical ways that your service can identify and treat risks for developing diabetes and cardiovascular disease at an early stage before these risks become established.

David, as father to a daughter with schizophrenia, led the UK’s National Early Intervention in Psychosis Programme (2004-2010) and was a key contributor to the WHO Early Psychosis Declaration (2004).

“People experiencing psychosis face a life-restricting and life-shortening epidemic of obesity, diabetes and cardiovascular disease. Implementation of effective interventions to both prevent and address these health inequalities is overdue.” Dr. David Shiers.

*A policy priority of the NHS Outcome Framework, featured in the NHS CQUIN target, the 2nd round of the National Audit of Schizophrenia (report due in October) and the anticipated release of NICE quality standards (based on NICE psychosis and schizophrenia guideline CG 178)

After you have attended this seminar, you will:

- know why high rates of cardiovascular disorders, diabetes and obesity constitute a health inequality for people experiencing psychosis
- Develop ideas on how an early intervention approach can tackle morbidity and premature mortality
- Take back some practical resources to apply in clinical practice

Who should attend? All practitioners involved in prescribing for, monitoring or supporting people taking antipsychotic medication. This includes psychiatrists of all specialties, GPs, psychologists, nurses and other health professionals, and anybody with an interest in promoting the physical well-being of people with mental health problems.

Course fees: £95. All learning materials, lunch and refreshments are included.
