You do not need to have had any prior training on CBT to attend this course.

Depression is a leading cause of disability worldwide. Updated guidelines for depression (NICE, 2021) recommend Cognitive Behaviour Therapy as a key evidence-based treatment for mild, moderate, severe and recurrent depression. This is being implemented across the NHS via IAPT and through the transformation of secondary care mental health services.

Cognitive therapy helps patients modify unhelpful patterns of thinking. Behaviour therapy breaks the vicious cycle of doing less through 'behavioural activation' and mindfulness involves developing an awareness of one's own thoughts without becoming involved. In this workshop you will learn how to use these techniques in everyday practice, in an individual or multidisciplinary setting.

This course aims to allow delegates to...

- Understand the basic principles of CBT for depression
- Motivate patients towards practical change using Socratic questioning, a personalised formulation, thought records and activity diaries
- Troubleshoot common problems when applying CBT
