Workshop

Chimp Management in Medicine

An exploration of the Chimp Model for personal and professional success

Thursday 19 September 2019

The Met Hotel, King Street, Leeds, LS1 2HQ

9am Registration, 9.30am Welcome and 4.30pm, Close

The Chimp Model is the critically acclaimed model for mind management developed by Psychiatrist Professor Steve Peters. The model is based on neuroscientific principles and takes what we know from the latest thinking in neuroscience into an accessible and workable model that has been used to help individuals, professionals and organisations in all fields.

Dr Trevor Gedeon will deliver a day of workshops that will explore the Chimp Model. Delegates will gain an understanding of themselves and others. The workshops will then explore how we can use this understanding to develop ways to manage our minds and finally use this to gain personal and professional success.

After attending this course delegates will be able to:

- Have insight and understanding of the psychological mind through the Chimp Model
- Have strategies to manage the difficulties that we face due to an out of control Chimp
- Develop helpful automatic programmes to help provide stability in the face of challenges

About our speaker:

Dr Trevor Gedeon, Consultant Forensic Psychiatrist, Chimp Management Ltd., works in the National High Secure Healthcare Service for Women at Rampton Hospital. He graduated in medicine from the University of Sheffield in 2009. He has been a member of the Royal College of Psychiatrists since 2013 and has presented his academic work at a number of national and international conferences. His work in psychiatry has involved working with persons of all ages and backgrounds, in a variety of settings. He has experiences in managing substance use, depressive disorders, anxiety disorders, psychosis, and personality disorders. Dr Gedeon has worked in the community, in psychiatric hospitals, in secure hospitals and in prisons. Dr Gedeon's calm and competent demeanour enables him to work with some of society's most complex individuals, helping to improve their mental health and abilities to function in the wider society. He works with a variety of patients who often have complex backgrounds and a mixture of complex problems.

He uses a combination of the skills he has learned in his career as a Forensic Psychiatrist in listening to his clients and treating each as an individual with his depth knowledge and experience of the Chimp Model to deliver the highest quality of care.
