

Giving Evidence at a Parole Hearing

Thursday 15 October 2020

The Met Hotel, King Street, Leeds, LS1 2HQ

9am Registration, 9.30am Welcome and 4.30pm, Close

Providing oral evidence in any legal context requires an understanding of the legal test. In the case of Parole Hearings, the test is not to direct release unless it is satisfied that it is no longer necessary for the protection of the public that the offender should be confined to prison, and if the test is not met, open conditions can be recommended where there is a decision that the benefits for the prisoner do not outweigh the risk to the public. Providing oral evidence at an Oral hearing should be based on this test, regardless of professional background.

The aims of the workshop will be to consider how to address the legal test in the context of conducting a risk assessment. This will cover areas relating to how to prepare for the Oral hearing, consideration of how the 'facts' of the case result in your opinion and advice for giving evidence. Opportunities for practice based learning will be included.

This course aims to provide delegates with:

- The purpose of the Oral hearing and how risk assessment applies to the legal test
- Develop both knowledge and confidence in providing Oral evidence (face to face and remotely)
- Develop effective techniques in responding to challenge

About our speaker:

Dr Beckley is Director of Beckley Psychology Services Ltd and a Registered Practitioner Psychologist (Clinical and Forensic) with the Health and Care Professions Council (HCPC).
