Introduction to Down's Syndrome

The Importance of inclusion and development

Tuesday 2nd June 2020

Mercure Leeds Parkway Hotel, Otley Rd, Leeds, LS16 8AG

9am Registration, 9.30am Welcome and 4.30pm, Close

Life expectancy for people with Down's Syndrome (DS) is not 65/70 years of age, yet in 1983 it was just 25 years. It has been suggested that it will be the first generation of people with DS to outlive their parents. Society needs to embrace this and strive to ensure expectations of development and inclusion improve. We will look at what DS is, possible health implications, the learning profile – strengths and weaknesses, how to help development, manage unwanted behaviours and the importance of good sexuality relationships education.

After attending this course delegates will be able to:

- Understand what DS is and how people with DS learn
- Understand the health implications of DS
- Understand the importance of SRE for young people with DS and how to tackle issues like public v private and appropriate social behaviours

About our Speaker:

Dr Wendy Uttley, BSc (Hons), DPhil, is currently the Group Coordinator and Trainer for the Down Syndrome Training & Support Service Ltd, based at The Pamela Sunter Centre. She is a Doctor of Mathematics with 15 years teaching experience, mainly in Further Education, but also in Secondary School. Since the birth of her son Sam, who is now 22 and has DS, she has devoted her life to the development and education of children with DS

In September 2000 she initiated the formation of the Down Syndrome Training & Support Service Ltd and in 2005 she left her teaching position and became employed by the charity. Her role as Group Coordinator and Trainer is a full time position and includes delivering training and delivering Early Development Groups to children with DS aged ten months to five years and their parents and school staff. Wendy has considerable understanding about the development, education and inclusion of children with DS.
